

Quill Editorial, 1954-1955

For many years, Timmins High & Vocational School has been without a school yearbook; however, many students had expressed a desire for such a publication. As a result, in the Spring of 1954, the nucleus of "The Quill" was born. From this nucleus, under the competent guidance of our advisory teacher, Mr. Birkenshaw, emerged this magazine.

On June 25th, 1954, the first administrative steps were ventured towards our goal. Working co-operatively, our staff organized a total of over 60 students of our school into an efficient and fully synchronized unit which contributed innumerable hours of thought, time and energy to our project.

I should like to take this opportunity to thank personally and on behalf of the entire "Quill" staff our advisory teacher, Mr. Birkenshaw, whose invaluable advice, time and effort were essential in every phase of this, our first publishing effort.

To Mr. Rose, our Principal, to the teaching staff, and to the various clubs, organizations and students cooperating with our efforts, we are truly grateful. Similarly, our deepest felt appreciation is thankfully extended to the advertisers and student subscribers who have financially invested in our venture.

In view of the fact that this, the first edition of a new volume of "The Quill" was published by a staff who had had no previous experience in this field whatsoever, we can only venture to hope that our efforts have lived up to your expectations and that this sudden revelation of the inborn school spirit which made this magazine possible be not allowed to die away, but be kindled into a brighter flame which will light the path of learning along with our motto "Sapientia Vincit Omnia" and will result in a more progressive "Quill" in the years hereafter.
